P.J. Groenke Into the Points Lead

PRINT | PIRELLI WORLD CHALLENGE STAFF | June 29, 2016 | TCA Class, TCB Class, Team News

Huntington, NY – PJ Groenke, driving the Tech Sport Racing #25 Chevy Sonic, leaves Road America in the TCB points lead. PJ scored his 5th consecutive podium this past weekend. He has been very consistent all season, and is getting faster every event. TCB team mate Michael Johnson has been right there at the front and a huge help to the team. In TCA Eric Powell is tied for 2nd place in the season points. Eric has consistently been a car to beat at the front of the class. Kevin Anderson drops to 5th place in the points after the Road America event. We are all excited for the round 9 &10 at Utah Motorsports Complex.

Tech Sport Racing, established in 2013, is a professional race team based in Long Island, New York. Founded by longtime racer Kevin Anderson and Deborah Popolizio, Tech Sport Racing won both Team and Driver Championships in the 2015 Pirelli World Challenge TCB class. Tech Sport Racing is once again poised for success in 2016 with multi-car campaigns in both the TCB and TCA classes.
